

Herbatint—Innovation in Motion

Herbatint redefines natural permanent hair color ... again! In the early days of the industry, Herbatint marked the beginning of a new era with the introduction of the first effective alternative to chemical-laced hair dye products. The product, made to the highest standards of Italian manufacturing craft, became an instant success in health food stores around the country. Now, four decades later, Herbatint is once again redefining what it means to be a natural permanent hair color with a startling array of important innovations.

- Betula alba (birch)—Protects and nourishes the hair while coloring.
- Pheum palmatum (rhubarb)—Protects the scalp and intensifies shine.

60 Million Consumers

Sixty Million Consumers, France's leading consumer-testing organization, confirmed that after testing 15 mass-market and three natural hair color brands for performance and safety, potential irritation, sensitization, mutagenic risks, carcinogens and reproductive toxins, Herbatint was the only hair color product to receive a positive rating.

Innovation That Reflects Core Values

Herbatint has recommitted itself to its core values around safety, efficacy and sustainability with several important innovations that directly benefit the consumer. Recently completed, third-party dermatological testing makes Herbatint the only permanent hair color proven safe for people with sensitive skin. And the company is now pleased to announce that the herbal extracts in Herbatint are subject to ongoing third party certification as being both non-GMO (genetically modified organism) and organic. And the effectiveness of Herbatint's hair color can in many ways be attributed to these herbal extracts. Here's how they work:

- Juglans regia (walnut)—Intensifies and purifies the color.
- Limnathes alba (meadowform seed oil)—Stabilizes the color for long lasting results.
- Cinchona calisaya (bark)—Fortifies and equalizes color.
- Hamamelis virginiana (witch hazel)—Rich in flavonoids and essential oils.
- Echinacea angustifolia (purple coneflower)—Hydrates and purifies the hair shaft.
